Cuts blamed for rise in thuggery

AXED youth services are being blamed for a rise in anti-social behaviour in Haverhill.

At the first meeting of the One Haverhill group – a board of county, borough and town councillors, as well as other agencies, Suffolk County Council was slammed for cutting back on youth provision.

Two youth workers were made redundant and the town's youth club closed following cuts made by the county council.

Haverhill's town mayor, Cllr Maureen Byrne, said with anti-social behaviour on the increase, it was vital to provide youth services.

She said: "We have a responsibility to the young people in the town to provide services. We now have no youth services at all and people have been made redundant."

"We raised money for a vehicle which was tremendous and got a lot of kids off the streets. Now they have not got that facility any more, what are our town, borough and county council going to do to provide youth services, because kids deserve it."

Kerry Young, a youth worker in Haverhill, said restructuring of the service meant everyone had to apply for their own jobs and two people took voluntary redundancy. The youth club had closed as they now did targeted detached work with youngsters and they still tried to get the youth van out in Haverhill on three nights a week.

She said: "I am sorry the youth club had to go because we had built it up from nothing, but there have been cutbacks and we can't work with all young people any more, so we have to be more targeted in our work with young people."

Blue Badge charge among ideas for £3.5m saving plan

CHARGING Blue Badge holders for parking and axing CCTV cameras are just some of the ideas being considered by a council which must save £3.5 million over the next two years.

Although it has frozen council tax bills for the past four years and already made cuts of £3.5 million in the past two years, St Edmundsbury Borough Council still needs to make more savings or generate more income to cope with further reductions in its Government grant.

Council leader Cllr John Griffiths has unveiled a £10,000 consultation exercise which, for the first time, will seek public views on where cuts should be made or charges introduced.

Cllr Griffiths said no decisions had been made on what measures should be adopted when the budget is set next February and it was vital that residents made their views clear on the ideas put forward or suggested others of their own.

He added: "I am very proud of the savings we have already made while freezing council taxes and still maintaining and improving services for our residents.

"While this has not been easy, the current economic situation now means we have to dig even deeper and perhaps fundamentally change the way we do things with, and for, our local communities.

"These are ideas for discussion, not decisions. A lot of them are controversial and we want people to think seriously about what they would like us to continue to provide, what is and is not acceptable. Our ideas are aimed to get the ball rolling and we welcome people's own ideas and suggestions."

Questionnaires will be sent out to 2,000 residents next week and it will also be possible to comment online at the borough website.

Residents will be asked to consider introducing charges for Blue Badge holders, as some councils already do, producing a potential income of £100,000. A 20p increase in car parking charges at Haverhill could produce another £150,000.

In 2010 the cost to St Edmundsbury of staffing the cameras 24 hours a day, every day, was around £169,000. Residents are being asked if they want cameras to stay in use, or be monitored less often or not at all.

Other cash-generating ideas include charging for toilets in the Abbey Gardens in Bury St Edmunds, as well as parking charges at Nowton Park and charging for some council services.

Cash saving ideas include closing or reducing the opening of the Bury Tourist Information Centre, reducing community events such as the Crucial Crew child safety events and reducing the park ranger service.

Teens reach final of county contest

BY LEANNE EHREN

Email: editorial@haverhillweeklynews.co.uk

FOUR teenagers who raised thousands of pounds in memory of their best friend have made it to the final of a competition that recognises young unsung heroes.

Georgina McGivern, Louisa Pett, Lizzie Sanders and Katrina Bass, all from Linton Village College, spent hours planning and putting on music festival Jesstonbury in memory of schoolfriend Jess Gower, who died last year after being diagnosed with bone cancer.

The girls, all aged 15, are in the final of the Redstone Cambridgeshire Young People of the Year (YOPEY) award, which looks to rewards those who are positive role models in society.

Last summer they organised a fete and raised £2,000 for Teenager Cancer Research and after Jess's death they held Jesstonbury Festival at the Cambridge Road school in July.

Dan Carter, a PE teacher at LVC who nominated the girls, said: "These four girls decided they wanted to go that extra mile... they have shown a great deal of leadership and determination and have managed to raise a large amount of money for something very close to their hearts."

Georgina, of Horseheath Road, Linton, said all the girls took different responsibilities including looking after activities and stalls, arranging music and staging, sorting food and planning publicity.

Georgina said: "Jess was very sporty but during the athletic season she was struggling and we thought it would be OK. But it got serious very quickly and she had to have chemotherapy.

"I had known Jess for four years. It was such a shock as we have never experienced anything like this before and didn't know what to do. That was when we decided to arrange the festival."

Jesstonbury raised about £5,000, bringing the girls' total fund-raising to £7,000 for cancer charities.

Shirley Gower, Jess's mother, wished them well and said: "Jess was a lovely, bright, bubbly, funny girl, I couldn't have asked for a better daughter. She made the world a better place and that's why so many people are prepared to do things for her because she was so well loved. She was giving people smiles and thumbs-up right until the end.

"Her peer group are all such lovely, positive girls and have been a real support to me and my family. They also spend time with us, which means an awful lot. They are all brilliant and I could not speak more highly of them and all they have done."

The four will find out if they are winners on September 13 at an awards ceremony in Peterborough Cathedral.

Crowds brave poor weather to enjoy fayre

CROWDS turned out despite unsettled weather to see falconry displays and other countryside pursuits at an annual village event.

The Thurlow Fayre on Sunday was opened by West Suffolk MP Matthew Hancock at the village recreation ground, and went ahead as planned until rain later in the afternoon meant it ended a little earlier.

Allan Loveday, chairman of the organising committee, said they were pleasantly surprised to have around 1,500 people attending the event despite the unsettled weather.

Although takings were slightly down on previous years, it is still expected to raise between £4,000 and £4,500 for local groups and other charities.

Falconer Michael Davie provided both static and flying displays. Urban All Stars Majorettes gave a display, as well as Hadstock Silver Band and members of Haverhill Centrestage, sang songs from musicals, including Copacabana for which they are currently rehearsing.

Cable theft leaves villagers with no phone lines for several days

VILLAGERS were left without a telephone service for several days after thieves stole 400 metres of cable.

Homes in West Wickham lost their telephone service on Sunday night and about 100 of them had still not been reconnected by Wednesday.

A spokesman for BT confirmed that the loss of service was due to a cable theft and expected all homes to be reconnected by Thursday.

Alex Schuilenburg, of High Street, West Wickham, said his telephone was back on by Wednesday morning, but others in the village were still out.

He said: "As far as we can gather the whole village has been out. We were still out at 11pm on Tuesday, but back on by Wednesday morning."

"I usually work from home in the evenings, but have been unable to do so. Everyone has been asking BT about it, but not getting any answers."

"This is unfortunate as I often work from home and like many people, am lost without an internet connection to pick up email and access my company's servers."

A spokesman for BT said it did suffer cable thefts because of the value of cables and it took time to gradually restore everyone's services.

She said: "We understand people's frustration and we share that frustration as we are the victims of theft."

"We are working with the police to try to prevent this happening in the future."

"We try to minimise the disruption caused and we are working to get everyone reconnected as quickly as possible."

"We are sorry if people feel they have been kept in the dark."

She added: "We do try to keep customers informed as best we can and do divert calls to mobile lines where possible."

We now go to 6,300 more homes than other papers in the area

YOUR Haverhill Weekly News now goes to 6,300 more homes than any other weekly newspaper in the area. Figures released this week from the newspaper industry's Audit of Bureau Circulations (ABC) show we are delivered free to 10,157 homes every week – that's a whopping 6,377 copies more than the paid-for Haverhill Echo, which has a weekly sales figure of 3,780.

Added to this, figures show that from the July-December 2009 period our distribution has increased by 327 copies, while the Haverhill Echo's sales have declined by 714 copies a week over the same timescale. Editor Alex Day said: "Our latest figure is excellent news for the Weekly News and for the people of Haverhill. We strive to provide an excellent news and advertising service for our readers every week and the fact that we get to thousands more homes than any other weekly newspaper in the area further underlines our commitment to the community."

Cuts are blamed for town thuggery

Gordon Mussett, Haverhill town clerk, said the town council had provided funding for years until Suffolk County Council had decided to stop supporting the youth club.

He said: "We have supported a lot of youth project work in the town and we still have money in the budget to support it."

Cllr Tim Marks, who chaired the meeting, pointed out the One Haverhill group was already working on a five-year plan for young people. He said: "It is recognised that there is a problem and the plan aims to do something about it."

■ Anti-social behaviour on Parkway estate and in other parts of town is to be tackled as a priority by police officers.

Tackling groups of youngsters drinking, creating noise and litter, as well as speeding round in cars and on bikes was agreed as one of three priorities for Haverhill Safer Neighbourhood Team officers at a meeting on Monday.

Several residents of the Parkway estate raised concerns about anti-social behaviour, including vandalism and youths riding up and down The Causeway. They felt they received a poor response from the police and were forgotten by other public services. Many paths were in a poor state, with tree roots growing through the pavement in places.

Mick Pilling said he had made many complaints about speeding along Queensway and renewed his call for speed humps.

Tackling illegal parking in the High Street and Queen Street was identified as another priority.

Tackling anti-social behaviour and drinking at the Railway Walk and adjacent areas was identified as the third priority.

Selina plays factory generation game

MOVING to new premises led a designer to discover that she was latest in the line of six generations of her family to work there.

Selina Austin and Rebecca Bacon relocated their design agency the Design Office from Steeple Bumpstead to Gurteen's Chantry Mills in Haverhill, renovating part of the old menswear clothing factory into office space.

Selina discovered that she and her brother Damian who works with her, are the latest in a long line of family members on both their mother's and father's side to be employed there. The family took a trip back in time and were shown around the factory by directors and cousins Christopher Gurteen and Jack Smart.

The connection dates all the way back to the 18th century. Selina's mother Patricia Austin worked at Chantry Mills from 1964 to 1973, while her grandmother Gladys Mallows worked there for 47 years. Gladys's mother, Edith Barber, worked in the looms and her father (Selina's great grandfather) George Barber was in charge of the horse and cart, transporting materials to the out workers who worked from home.

The family history with Gurteen's goes back even further. Selina's great grandmother Sarah Barber was a tailor or 'trouser hand', as was her mother Hannah Cornell before her. The connection does not end there, as Selina's father Michael was the designer and cutting shop manager from 1964 to 1985. His mother Kathleen Austin, now 88 years old, also worked there and his great great Aunt Caroline was married to Daniel Gurteen. The factory's steam engine, which generated electricity for the factory and looms, was named after Caroline Gurteen on the couple's golden wedding anniversary in 1880.

Selina said: "It is amazing to find that we have had six generations of our family work in this beautiful building. I always knew that the family had a connection to Gurteens but to have this rich history with Chantry Mills is really interesting.

Christopher Gurteen said: "Because we don't manufacture in Haverhill now, we have space available in this wonderful building and have converted part of it into offices. It is fascinating to see the old photos from Selina's family who worked here and six generations is not far behind the number of generations of Gurteens who have worked here."

Selina's grandmother, Gladys

Mallows, was just 14 when she started working at Chantry Mill and she spent all of her working life at Gurteens. Now 91 years old, it was the first time she had visited Chantry Mills in 30 years.

Gladys said: "I have fond memories of working here. My mum and father also worked here as did my grandmother and great grandmother. It is marvellous that my granddaughter has her own business based here. It keeps it in the family, and of course women didn't run businesses in those days. I really admire her."

Woman attacked

A YOUNG woman was assaulted as she was walking on a recreation ground last Thursday night.

Police are appealing for witnesses following the assault on the 22-year-old woman, which happened between 10.45pm and 11pm, near to the toilets on the recreation ground in Camps Road, Haverhill.

The woman was walking near to the toilets when she was approached by a man.

He pushed her into a wall and she subsequently fell to the ground. She was injured, with a swollen eye and cheek, and a gash to the bridge of her nose. After a brief struggle the woman was able to run home.

The man is described as 5ft 5in tall, wearing a black hooded top with the hood up, black trousers or jeans and black footwear.

Witnesses to this incident should call PC Dan Aston at Haverhill Police on (01473) 613500 or Crimestoppers on 0800 555 111.

Top award for blaze hero PC

Off-duty officer dragged man from burning car

BY LEANNE EHREN

Email: editorial@haverhillweeklynews.co.uk

A POLICEMAN who risked his life to drag a Newport man from a blazing, overturned car has been awarded one of the country's top bravery honours.

Pc Matthew Hammill, based with Suffolk Police's response team in Haverhill, was off duty when he dragged Stuart MacFarlane from his car less than a minute before it exploded in a fireball.

Pc Hammill is to receive a Royal Humane Society Testimonial on Vellum, by Royal approval, personally approved and signed by the society's president, Princess Alexandra.

The society's secretary, Dick

Courage: Pc Matthew Hammill is to be awarded the country's top honour.

Wilkinson, praised Pc Hammill.

Speaking at the society's London headquarters, he said Pc Hammill was travelling along the eastbound carriageway of the A14, near Bury St Edmunds, on April 22, when he saw an overturned vehicle on fire on the opposite carriageway.

Mr Wilkinson said: "He doubled back and stopped, asking members of the public if there was anyone in the vehicle. Having been told that the driver had left the scene and the car was empty, he then moved the people present to a safe distance and went to carry out a check on the car.

"It was at this stage he spotted Mr MacFarlane through the rear passenger side window. He ran over, managed to pull him out of the window by his arm and then dragged him to a safe distance. The car then exploded within a minute of him doing this.

"If he had been seconds later, there is no doubt that Pc Hammill and Mr MacFarlane could both have been killed. Pc Hammill risked his life in approaching this blazing vehicle.

"His actions were selfless and courageous, and without doubt he saved Mr MacFarlane's life. He is a credit to the force and richly deserves this award."

The award was made on the recommendation of Suffolk police.

Author's role for Hancock

HUMAN behaviour which led to the current global financial crisis is examined in a new book co-written by West Suffolk MP Matthew Hancock.

Mr Hancock, who worked for the Bank of England before becoming an MP, has written the book Masters of Nothing with fellow MP Nadhim Zahawi, who represents Stratford on Avon.

Their book looks at the human behaviour behind the financial crisis. It looks at the world as it is, and tries to understand how people actually behaved in the run up to the biggest crash in the history of capitalism.

From the herd instinct and outrageous risk-taking of the boom years, through the tipping point of 2008 and the rewards for failure received by those at the top, the book combines stories of gritty reality with concrete proposals for what must change.

Teachers link in standards quest

BY JO DEEKS

Email: editorial@haverhillweeklynews.co.uk

STAFF members from eight schools are joining forces to make sure all their pupils get the same level of outstanding teaching.

The new Samuel Ward Schools Partnership was launched at Haverhill Arts Centre on Monday, during a conference attended by staff from seven schools, to share ideas about teaching.

The conference had, as its keynote speaker, June McNaughton, a nationally recognised assessor of the quality of teaching and learning.

All of the staff there said that the conference was a great success and welcomed the opportunity to work with colleagues from other local schools.

The schools partnership aims to further raise academic standards within the schools involved and to provide students with opportunities that they would not otherwise have.

By joining together, the schools can share specialist resources and better provide for their pupils, especially in the fields of sport, music, languages and the ever important maths and English.

Although the partnership currently comprises eight schools including Samuel Ward Academy and Coups, Kedington, Westfield, Wickhambrook, Hundon, New Cangle and Thurlow Primary Schools, other schools may become involved if they wish. Staff from Clare Primary School also attended the teaching and learning conference.

Mark MacIntosh, head teacher of Hundon Primary School, said: "This is a real opportunity for us to work more closely together to help the children of Haverhill and the surrounding villages.

"As small schools, it can be quite hard at times to do all of the things you would like to do, but this provides us with the means to overcome that.

"It is an exciting venture that has enormous potential."

Andrew Prestoe, deputy head at Samuel Ward Academy, said: "We've enjoyed good links with our primary schools in the past, but this is the next step.

"It's about making sure that pupils in all schools get access to exciting opportunities and also about making sure that we deepen our understanding of the needs of the children so that we can make sure that they make even better progress, faster."

Civic Viewpoint

with Haverhill mayor Maureen Byrne

IT'S more than 20 years since I attended the very first Haverhill Town Council meeting and I am proud to have been elected, not only as councillor, but as mayor to this current council.

The reasons for forming the town council in 1989, to actively campaign for improvements to services in Haverhill, remain the same today, although now we seem to be campaigning to retain those essential services.

The dedication of the councillors, all unpaid volunteers, the staff, and all who work with us on joint initiatives, is reflected in the high profile that Haverhill has with other authorities, and I intend to ensure we continue our success.

Alone among all the other Suffolk communities, we have been successful in achieving the required number of signatories to force Suffolk County Council to debate our proposal to keep our older persons home, Place Court, in public ownership or management. No other town or village managed that. Watch this space for details of a future public meeting.

Over the school summer holidays the town council has promoted, funded and assisted at a large number of events aimed at families, children and young adults.

Most of these have been free to attend, and have been very well attended. I know from comments received how valuable these have been to our residents, particularly in these financially difficult times, and I hope that we will be able to continue offering these facilities in 2012.

Although initially unwilling to become mayor, because I saw myself more as a hands-on grass-roots negotiator/organiser, I am pleased I accepted the nomination because, above all else, it has enabled me to thank, those local organisations that contribute so much to the vitality of our town.

It has also enabled me to compare the services our town council provides with those of other towns, and to recognise how fortunate we are to live in Haverhill, where there is so much to offer. Wherever I go, other mayors comment on how fortunate we are to have our arts centre, which enables residents to see a wealth of talent on their doorstep.

There are some challenges ahead; the decision by Suffolk County Council to close open-access youth clubs, and prioritise their work on a small group of older teenagers, has left a large number of young people with no organised outlet for their energies.

We are establishing a Youth Town Council to enable young people themselves to express and achieve their vision for Haverhill, and continue to try to attract qualified youth workers so that we can reopen the youth club.

The town council is represented on the board of One Haverhill, and will be actively involved in discussions as to how we can, together, work to improve local services. Unlike other councils on the board we are able to demonstrate how the council tax paid by our residents contributes to services delivered in the town, and are willing to change to achieve better use of public monies. One Haverhill is new, and we will strive to ensure it delivers its aims.

And, finally, look out for the public consultation on refurbishing part of the High Street. No, not pedestrianisation - that's another story, with the county council putting back the public inquiry to 2012 - but changing the layout and paving to that part of the High Street from Camps Road to Quakers Lane.

MEMORIES

Last week's Memories photograph, from our archives, led to this email from Denise Hartley, who said: "Looking at your picture this week of youngsters having fun we can identify the three children in the back row from left to right as Laura-Jayne, Michael and Jeanette Hartley. We are not sure what the event was but wondered if it was perhaps a story time at the library held during the school holidays." The photo was taken at the library. It was a Halloween party and was taken in October, 1992.

Call for views on mobile libraries

MOBILE library visits across Suffolk could be halved to save the service money.

A public consultation on the future of the county's mobile library service was launched on Monday.

Two main proposals are being considered over the next six weeks. One would see the service reduced from fortnightly visits to monthly or four-weekly visits, in common with Cambridgeshire and Norfolk.

The second would remove mobile library stops in parishes or towns which already have a library building.

Suffolk County Council would save £225,000 a year if these proposals are implemented.

BY JENNIE BAKER

Email: editorial@haverhillweeklynews.co.uk

At present, it costs the council £600,000 to provide its six mobile libraries, as well as the one used as a backup in case of breakdowns, which are visited 76,433 times each year and have around 7,000 customers.

These visits cost £7.70 per person as opposed to £2.51 for each trip to one of the county's 44 libraries.

While statistics for the last three years have shown a rise in borrowing, visits to mobile libraries have declined by 32.5 per cent over the last 10 years and loans have decreased by 37 per cent.

Cllr Judy Terry, portfolio holder responsible for libraries, said: "I want to reassure people that these proposals will not leave anybody who currently uses mobile libraries without any level of local library provision."

"What we're asking people for are their views on how to keep it running whilst making necessary financial savings."

"We think we can save money whilst keeping a valued public service running. But that decision is a long way off. Now's the time to work with Suffolk residents to find out what they want to happen."

Ideas to save money rejected by the council include reducing mobile library stops where usage is very low, reducing the stops based on a minimum distance from a library building, or reducing stops where more than one exists within a village.

Suffolk residents who need help to access the library service would be able to use the council's At Home Library Service.

Following the consultation, the council's cabinet will consider a report and recommendations on November 8 and any changes which are approved will not come into effect before the start of April.

People can tell the council what they value about the service and where they feel savings could be made by submitting a consultation survey on any of the mobile libraries by visiting www.suffolk.gov.uk/sld

MP wins baking contest

MP Matthew Hancock has revealed his talents extend to the kitchen – by winning a prize for his Victoria sponge.

The West Suffolk MP opened the annual Thurlow Fayre last Sunday and said he was "surprised and delighted" to win a prize in the men's Victoria sponge category.

He said: "It was a fantastic day out for all the family."

"The atmosphere was very welcoming, and the afternoon had a real sense of community spirit."

"I was also absolutely thrilled, and surprised, to win a prize for my Victoria sponge – a brilliant end to the summer. All credit and thanks must go to the organisers of the event."

Cemetery is set to unveil special memorials for youngsters

SPECIAL memorials where families can remember babies and children buried in Haverhill Cemetery will be unveiled next month.

The memorials are in a part of the cemetery dedicated to stillborn babies and children, but it is hoped they will also become a place where any parents who have lost a child can come and remember them.

The memorials will be unveiled on Sunday, September 25, following a commemoration service at the cemetery chapel.

It is not known how many babies and children are buried in Haverhill Cemetery, as many of the older records held by the former Haverhill Urban District Council were not kept. The cemetery is now managed by St Edmundsbury Borough Council.

For many years young children were usually buried in unmarked graves or at the foot of an adult grave, which means that later generations find it difficult to trace them. Anyone who has lost a child is welcome to attend the service but they are asked to first contact the cemeteries office on (01284) 757068 to register their interest.

Balloons go up in world record flight

BY JO DEEKS

Email: editorial@haverhillweeklynews.co.uk

HOT air balloon pilot David Rawlings was part of a massive world record-breaking event in France.

A total of 343 balloon teams broke the world record for the most taking off at the same time, with teams taking part from 14 countries.

A local team called HPCB Pegasus Balloon Team travelled to France to take part in the record attempt and flew in a red and silver balloon called Pegasus.

The balloon was piloted by David Rawlings from Haverhill, supported by his IT support company Haverhill PC Bureau.

The crew assisting him were his partner Janice Duffy, Ian and Alison White from Barley and team photographer Nick Barrett-White from Felixstowe.

Alison said: "It was an amazing sight to see so many balloons flying at the same time – there were hundreds of beautiful balloons all around you floating like bubbles in the air."

The new world record was set at the Chambley-Bussieres Aerodrome in eastern France, when the balloons took off during the Lorraine Mondial international hot air balloon festival.

Flight team: Ian and Alison White, David Rawlings, Janice Duffy and Nick Barrett-White

The balloons ascended from the former Nato air base, and broke the previous record of 329 balloons, set at the same festival in 2009.

The mass ascent should have taken place three days earlier, but bad weather meant it had to be postponed.

David said: "We spent the week flying most mornings and evenings weather permitting and were all very proud to have been involved in breaking the world record."

Cloudy2Clear Windows – Service With A Smile!

It's been a crazy few months for Cloudy2Clear Windows. The company which specialises in repairing windows which are steamed up, broken or damaged by replacing the panes – not the frames has grown rapidly as homeowners take advantage of their services.

Managing Director Tim Law feels that it's all about service. "Our product is simple. If your double glazing is misted up we can replace the glass at a fraction of the cost of a new window, in any type of frame, and with a new 5 year guarantee. But it's not just about saving people money, although that obviously helps. Many tradespeople have struggled since last year and I honestly feel that during the good times a minority perhaps didn't focus on customer care as much as they should have done. We make sure we turn up when we say we will, do the job the customer requires and leave their house as clean as a whistle. I often get comments back from customers on how they really didn't expect that sort of service which, in a way, is very sad for the service industry as a whole."

Cloudy2Clear service the Cambridge, Ely, Saffron Walden, Haverhill, Royston & Newmarket areas and Tim is finding that his approach is a major factor in his success. "The truth is that it's not just the personal satisfaction that I get from doing a good job but also it makes good business sense. I get a huge amount of business from friends and family of people I've done work for, which just goes to show how much a little bit of effort is appreciated."

So, if your windows are steamed up, broken or damaged give Tim a call for a free quotation on 0800 61 21 118 and he'll be happy to help!

Taking steps to bring in charity cash

BY JO DEEKS

Email: editorial@haverhillweeklynews.co.uk

SIX novice walkers were footsore but victorious after completing a 38-mile trek to raise money for their local hospice.

A group of staff members from Ipswich Building Society left their Haverhill branch at 9am on Friday, September 2 for the walk across the Suffolk countryside for the St Nicholas Hospice's Towergate Accumulator Challenge, which involves 49 firms battling to turn a £50 stake into as much cash as possible.

The all-male group, who had no previous experience or passion in long-distance walking, trekked between Ipswich Building Society branches in Haverhill and at Tower Ramparts, in Ipswich, calling in at Sudbury and Hadleigh on the way.

They made an overnight stop, and then arrived in Ipswich at 3.15pm on Saturday.

The team members were Kevin Davis, who works at Haverhill; Wayne Hurrell, of Sudbury and Haverhill branches; Alex Deal, of Hadleigh branch; Lester Blake and Ben Cousins, of the Ipswich Tower Ramparts branch and Paul Millar, who covers all four branches.

Kevin ended up with a huge blister on his foot and had to have a couple of days off work to rest it.

He said: "It is pretty nasty, but I shall be back at work. Everyone found it pretty hard – a lot harder than we thought it would be."

"We all helped each other to keep going, but we did the last couple of miles on auto-pilot. It was very hot, up to 26 to 27 degrees, and a couple of the lads got sunburn."

"We think we have got just over £1,360 in sponsorship and the company is going to match it. It is quite a substantial amount of money, so it was worth all the blisters."

Donations can be accepted at all branches, or you can sponsor the team online at www.justgiving.com/branchwalk.

Man faces sex charges trial

A MAN who faces charges of sexually assaulting two young girls has been committed to Ipswich Crown Court for trial.

Mark Stringer, 48, of Lower Crescent, Barham, Suffolk, appeared at Bury St Edmunds magistrates' court on Tuesday. He faces four charges that at Kedington between January and May 2007 he assaulted a 10-year-old girl, by intentionally touching her sexually.

He faces a further four identical charges, also at Kedington, between May 2007 and May 2008, in relation to an 11-year-old girl.

Stringer entered no pleas to any of the charges against him and was granted unconditional bail until a preliminary hearing at Ipswich Crown Court on October 7.

Haverhill Town Women's Guild

Monthly Report

AT the beginning of the August meeting, a tribute was given by the chairman, Mrs Hampson, to Norma Poole, who died on August 12. Norma had been a leading light in the guild, having being chairman, secretary and a committee member. She will be greatly missed by all members. A minute's silence was held in respect for her, followed by applause in celebration of her life.

The meeting resumed and many fundraising ideas were put forward, including a quiz and a stall at Haverhill's late night shopping event at Christmas.

A visit to the Animal Health Trust at Kennett has been arranged, where there will be a talk and tour followed by a cream tea.

The members were then entertained by Mrs Jenny Coe, a very professional flower arranger who created several displays, which were beautiful. These were raffled and lucky members took them home.

The next guild meeting is on Tuesday, September 27. The speaker will be Mr Ashman on the subject of Four Continents in a Year. New members and guests are always very welcome; just come along to meetings or telephone Mrs Hampson on 01440 714730.

Drink-drive crash mum had her daughter in car

A CARE worker who has driven for the past 17 years – despite having just a provisional licence – has been banned from the road.

Lee-Anne Davies, 35, had her young daughter in her car when she crashed it on the A505 at Abington.

Police and emergency services attended the scene to discover that not only was Davies drink-driving – but she also had no licence or MoT for the vehicle.

Davies, of Chapelwent Road,

Haverhill, appeared at Cambridge Magistrates' Court on August 31 and pleaded guilty to driving a motor vehicle while above the legal alcohol limit, using a motor vehicle without a test certificate and driving a motor vehicle otherwise than in accordance with a licence. Magistrates disqualified her from driving for 12 months.

Laura Mardell, prosecuting, said: "It was at around 8.20pm on August 18 when police were called to a single-vehicle collision on the A505.

"They arrived to find a Renault Scenic vehicle standing stationary in one of the lanes with front end damage.

Davies and her young daughter were in the car at the time and were being treated by paramedics.

"She told police that she came around the corner, did a 180-degree turn and ended up in the middle of the road. When asked by police if she had drunk any alcohol, she replied 'just one glass'."

However, Davies was given a roadside breath test. She was arrested after giving a reading of 49 micrograms of alcohol in 100 millilitres of breath. The legal limit is 35 micrograms.

In police interview, Davies said she had been to the pub with her daughter for dinner and that she had drunk one glass of wine.

Mrs Mardell added: "In relation to the licence, she only had a provisional so, therefore, should not have been driving unaccompanied by an experienced driver.

"She told police she had been driving with a provisional licence since 1994."

Unrepresented in court, Davies said: "I'm a carer and this is such a foolish thing for me to have done. I've been paying for this ever since it happened."

Davies was also fined £275 and ordered her to pay £85 costs and £15 victim surcharge.

Improvements lead to national education role

OVERSEEING improvements in a group of schools has led to a head teacher being appointed to a national organisation

Following impressive improvements in each school within the Castle Partnership at Haverhill, Castle Manor Business and Enterprise College principal Madeleine Vigar has been appointed a National Leader of Education and Castle Manor has been designated a National Support School. The partnership also includes Place Farm and Burton End Primary schools.

National Leaders of Education are outstanding head teachers who, together with the staff of their schools, work to provide additional leadership in other schools facing challenging circumstances.

To be designated a National Leader, head teachers must not only have a record of exceptional leadership and management, but also lead a school achieving outstanding results for the community it serves. They must also have a proven track record of leading improvement beyond their own schools.

Alan Pearson, chair of governors at Castle Manor and Place Farm, said: "This designation recognises Madeleine's outstanding contribution to education within the Partnership.

"It is also a tribute to the commitment and skills of the other staff within our partnership and reinforces our conviction that full collaboration between our schools is the best means to secure lasting improvement."

New role: Madeleine Vigar.

Rocking return to the Sixties

ANYONE who enjoys 1960s' music can be sure of a perfect night out at Haverhill Arts Centre.

I Love the Sixties is a feelgood show on Wednesday, September 14, which features original artists from the golden era of pop, The Merseys.

Known originally as The Merseybeats, they had the reputation of being one of the best live acts on the circuit and were popular at The Cavern Club with hits like Don't Turn Around and Wishin' and Hopin'. Later, as The Merseys, they also enjoyed a massive hit with Sorrow.

I Love the Sixties also features Abbie Matthews, with a tribute to Tina Turner and Sounds Force 5, who were voted the top '60s band in East Anglia by Van Morrison.

The show starts at 8pm and tickets cost £15. To book call (01440) 714140.

Man robbed of wallet

POLICE are appealing for witnesses after a man was robbed in a Haverhill street.

The 28-year-old victim was walking in Duddery Hill at about 12.10 on Monday, September 5, when was pushed from behind.

His wallet fell from his hand and the robber, who shoved him, snatched it before running off. The offender is described as a 5ft 8in and of stocky build. He was wearing a black hooded top, dark blue Adidas bottoms and gloves.

Anyone with information should call DS Carl Dye at Bury St Edmunds CID on (01473) 613500 or Crimestoppers on 0800 555111.

MP backs tougher stance on crime

TOUGH new plans to make offenders do a full week of hard work and job-seeking have been welcomed by MP Matthew Hancock.

The West Suffolk MP welcomed Government proposals for tougher community sentences that will see offenders made to do a full five-day week of hard work and job seeking.

The work will include manual labour, improving public areas by clearing up litter, cleaning graffiti and maintaining parks and other green spaces.

The new rules will see unemployed criminals forced to work a minimum of 28 hours over four days, with the fifth day spent looking for full-time employment.

These proposals are part of the Government's plans to reform sentencing and tackle the root causes of offending. As well as giving something back to communities affected by crime, they will help bring structure to offenders' lives. This will encourage them back into the routine of hard and meaningful work.

BY JO DEEKS

Email: editorial@haverhillweeklynews.co.uk

Mr Hancock said: "People want to see offenders punished for their crimes, as well as giving back to the community. They should be made to work the full five-day week that decent, law-abiding citizens do, rather than idly waste their lives on street corners."

"The introduction of a regular, meaningful working week will help break the cycle of crime and tackle the appalling rate of re-offending we inherited from Labour."

"We will then see fewer criminals, fewer victims of crime and big savings for the taxpayer – a thoroughly positive result for society and the local community here in West Suffolk."

Young mum Cassana tells of her three little miracles

All Cassana and Steve's children were born premature – the youngest at 27 weeks, weighing just over 2lb – but now they're all healthy, happy children. Their doting mum tells their story... by Louise Martin.

THREE adorable faces are waiting for me when I arrive at the Rason household. Leo – at 4, the oldest of the cheeky trio – and 3-year-old Chase are dressed identically ("it saves on arguments" explains mum Cassana) and standing between them is their little sister, Sienna-Lilly, who's 21 months.

"Have you come to play?" Leo asks me. But before I have time to answer, he and his brother have run off into the garden of their Cambridge home to play on the "jumphline", with dad Steve and Sienna-Lilly following closely behind.

"Leo's four going on 14 at the moment," says Cassana, proudly, "he's in to everything and a complete chatterbox."

The doting mum can't help but smile as she watches her young children playing together happily: all three were born prematurely, and are now in a place that, at one time, she barely dared dream of.

A former children's dance instructor, Cassana, 22, was teaching a class when her waters broke five weeks early with Leo. "I ended up with an emergency C-section and he then spent 40 hours in SCBU (Special Care Baby Unit)," she explains. "Leo was born at 36 weeks and weighed 6lb 2oz. "It was very scary at the time but, compared to what we went on to, it was quite straightforward."

With the plan to have three children, the couple were delighted when Cassana fell pregnant with their second child just a few months after Leo was born.

The pregnancy was going well until the 18th week, when Cassana developed a urinary tract infection. "They thought I was going to miscarry at one point," she says. "It was a scary time."

Cassana recovered and things seemed to be back on track until week 27 when she started experiencing Braxton Hicks contractions. By week 28 she was feeling twinges, which became more frequent, so the couple went to hospital. "Within half an hour my waters broke," says Cassana. "At that point I was at a level one unit and they don't take babies that early, they only take them from 34 weeks. Within 10 minutes there was an ambulance waiting to take me to the nearest level 2 unit, which takes babies from 26 weeks."

After arriving at the second hospital, Cassana endured 32 hours of labour before it was decided she would need an emergency C-section. Chase was born at 29 weeks and weighed just 3lb 6oz. Before Cassana could see her tiny newborn son, he was rushed to the Neonatal Intensive Care Unit (NICU).

"When I was in recovery one of the nurses brought me a photo of him, but I didn't see him until the evening," she says. "He seemed miniature but he was actually a good weight for his gestation so, in that sense, he was fine."

The next morning Cassana and her mum went to visit Chase and were met with an alarming scene. "We went to go into the unit but there were green screens and lots of doctors around him. Even now, talking about it gives me goosebumps. I was taken to the parents' room and told his right lung had collapsed so the surgeons were in the middle of a minor op to put a chest drain in."

Chase was put on a ventilator while he was recovering from the operation and he seemed to be making progress but, at three days old, he developed a bleed on his brain. Luckily, the bleed healed without causing any damage.

Chase also had jaundice and required several blood transfusions, but, after eight weeks in the neonatal unit, he was finally well enough to go home.

"It was quite hard trying to juggle everything," admits the busy young mum. "Steve only had two weeks paternity leave, I was still recovering from the C-section and Leo, who essentially was still a baby, wasn't even walking at this point."

Just before Chase turned 1, Steve and Cassana got married. "Initially after what happened with Chase we were put off having another child, and we did say no more, but we'd always wanted three children," she explains.

"We were never given a medical reason as to why the boys were early, and there was such a difference between Leo and Chase, it wasn't like we were guaranteed to have another baby who was as premature as Chase."

When Cassana fell pregnant with Sienna-Lily, the couple were delighted, but, from six weeks, she describes it as a "nightmare pregnancy". "I was in and out of hospital and had to give up work as I was just too unreliable as I was constantly ill," she says. The family were dealt yet another blow when Steve was made redundant from his job as a print finisher.

At 22 weeks, her waters broke dangerously early, putting both mum and baby at serious risk.

"At this point it looked like Sienna was going to be born at 23 weeks," she says.

"We had the talk with the neonatal doctors where they told us that, if she was born then, and we wanted them to, and it was viable, they would try to save her."

"They don't essentially by law have to save babies at 23 weeks – it's 24 weeks where they're classed as viable – but there have been babies born as young as 21 weeks and six days who have survived."

Cassana remained in hospital for the following weeks and in October 2009, Sienna-Lily was born at 27 weeks, weighing just 2lb 3oz.

"With Chase we had problems right at the start and then he gradually got better and stronger, but with Sienna it seemed she was born well – or as well as a 27-week-old baby could be – and then she got to three weeks old and just got really, really sick," she explains.

Sienna-Lily developed Necrotizing Enterocolitis (NEC), a gastrointestinal disease, which typically affects premature babies, causing infection and inflammation in the bowels, which can cause perforations to the gut and bowels resulting in septicemia.

As the couple lived in Hertford at the time, Sienna-Lily was born in Hillingdon Hospital, but when she was just nine-days-old, she was transferred to Lister Hospital in Stevenage, which was a level 2 unit. She was transferred again when she was five weeks old to Norfolk and Norwich University Hospital.

"By the time she was transferred to Norfolk and Norwich Hospital she was extremely poorly," remembers Cassana. "The last couple of days prior to her being transferred I did think she was going to die."

Exploratory surgery discovered four perforations in Sienna's gut and large bowel. The large bowel was removed in surgery and she was left with a stoma (a type of temporary colostomy bag).

Despite being so poorly, Sienna-Lily proved she was a fighter and, after 11 weeks in hospital, was finally allowed home in January last year. "We were so, so pleased to leave the hospital," smiles Cassana. "She weighed 4lb 7oz and you could see people looking in shock as we put her in the car seat because she was so tiny."

Six months after coming home, Sienna-Lily underwent a second operation to reverse the stoma. "When the surgeon came out of theatre and said everything was fine I could have kissed him," smiles Cassana. "We owe them (Norfolk and Norwich Hospital) everything."

Shortly after the corrective surgery, the family moved to Cambridge. But their fresh start hasn't been without problems. Last winter, Chase and Sienna-Lily both ended up in hospital with bronchitis. The family was just getting back on track when Cassana also became ill.

"I started experiencing panic attacks and I actually ended up in intensive care as they would trigger severe asthma attacks," she recalls. "I think it was a delayed reaction to everything because, as a parent, you just keep on going, and then I finally had a chance to breathe and it was like I was hit by a ton of bricks."

"I think something which people aren't made aware of is the financial implications something like this has on a family. Neither of us could work during that time and there's no government support. We're still paying for it now."

Before starting her family, Cassana was pursuing a career in the music industry, but her experiences have forced her to reassess her life and she has now become a campaigner for the premature babies' charity Bliss, and hopes to become a neonatal nurse.

"I got involved with Bliss at the end of May this year. I came out of hospital and I thought, although certain things shouldn't have happened with Sienna, I can't change them but, hopefully, I can make a difference so that nobody else will have to endure that."

Following his redundancy, Steve is now enjoying being a stay-at-home dad, while Cassana works as a nursery practitioner in Cambridge and is studying NVQ level 3 in childcare.

"I want to go to university and then I would love to do neonatal nursing at Addenbrooke's," she smiles. "I like that I'm at home enough so that I'm not missing out on the children growing up as it's so precious. I can't believe that Leo is starting school this September."

Cassana also sits on the Maternity Services Liaison Committee (MSLC) at Addenbrooke's as a Neonatal Intensive Care Unit (NICU) representative. "I think neonatal services have come on a lot, and there are things in place for them to improve further in the next five years. It is so important because it will make a massive difference to so many families."

"Some of those babies, incredibly sadly, don't make it and you just can't even begin to think what parents are going through. The units can be very sad places, but we have seen miracles happen, so they're worth fighting for."

Crackdown nails 1,300 motorists

MORE than 1,300 speeding drivers have been caught in a week-long crackdown.

The county-wide speed campaign ended on Sunday August 28, after 1,171 motorists were caught red-handed by police officers.

A further 197 were snapped by fixed cameras during the crackdown, which saw more penalties enforced and checks carried out across Suffolk.

Fewer drivers were caught speeding in this crackdown, led by Tispol, the European Traffic Police Network, than during enforcement campaigns carried out earlier this year and in 2010.

In April, more than 1,500 people were found to be driving too fast, while the campaign last August resulted in around 1,450 people being caught.

Insp Bruce Gent, of the Roads Policing Unit, said: "Despite the small reduction in the amount of people caught speeding, the figures we see are still too high."

"It is disappointing that there are so many people not taking notice of our warnings and continue to drive at excessive speed."

Dark skies over Europe

AFTER the best part of three decades away from the stage, it takes a big role to bring an actor of Warren Clarke's stature back in front of a live theatre audience. And roles don't come much bigger than Winston Churchill.

The Dalziel and Pascoe star has been donning that iconic homburg in Cambridge this week to star in Three Days in May, a new political thriller that goes behind the doors of Number Ten during three of the most pivotal days in British history – when the nation teetered on the brink of giving in to Hitler.

Ben Brown's play – visiting the Arts Theatre as part of a limited UK tour, prior to a West End run – transports the audience back to May 1940 when, having urgently assembled the British war cabinet, new Prime Minister Churchill is suddenly confronted with an intense game of political chess as he tries to persuade peace treaty supporters – including his predecessor, Neville Chamberlain – that Britain's resolve must not crumble. Divided on whether to negotiate terms through Mussolini or escalate the battle against fascism alone, one man has to make a monumental decision which will shape the future of the free world.

Warren Clarke has been starring on stage, television and the big screen for more than four decades. His credits include Jim Flynn in the recent BBC comedy In With The Flynns; three series of Down to Earth, opposite Pauline Quirke, Blackadder, Bleak House, The Invisibles, Coronation Street and, of course, playing PC-baiting Detective Superintendent Andy Dalziel in 12 series of the multi-award winning Dalziel and Pascoe, based on Reginald Hill's bestselling novels. His films range from Stanley Kubrick's A Clockwork Orange to the Clint Eastwood actioner Firefox.

Clarke is joined by Simon Ward as Neville Chamberlain and Jeremy Clyde as Lord Halifax. Ironically, Ward is perhaps best known for another interpretation of Churchill, as the star of the 1972 film Young Winston. Other major roles include Zulu Dawn, The Three Musketeers and Dracula and, more recently, he has starred in Judge John Deed and The Tudors.

Jeremy Clyde's films include Doctor Zhivago, Kaspar Hauser and The Musketeer. His extensive TV credits include Downton Abbey, Ashes to Ashes and EastEnders, and he is also well known as one half of the 60s singing duo Chad and Jeremy.

Calling Planet Earth

B RITISH pop icons Duran Duran are opening up four of their pre-tour rehearsals to fans at intimate venues across the UK in advance of their upcoming UK and US dates this autumn – including a show in Cambridge tonight.

The band were forced to cancel a string of UK and European tour dates after lead singer Simon Le Bon developed vocal problems in early May, though, after a rigorous treatment plan, the band say he is now back in full voice.

Due to the overwhelming demand, promoters of the shows have now increased capacities at the venues and a limited number of tickets have been made available to the general public – and are now on sale.

The four UK shows will be the first time the band have invited their fans into what is essentially an open rehearsal setting, with no production in a very intimate space. The foursome will then fly to America to kick start the All You Need Is Now world tour on September 23 in Seattle. The band will return to the UK for a series of 12 arena concerts, starting on November 30 at The Brighton Centre.

"I am absolutely thrilled to be getting back on the road and touring again after my recent vocal injury," Le Bon says. "It's been an incredibly tough time and extremely frustrating, but after receiving treatment I have made gradual improvements each week in recovering the upper part of my range."

"I am truly grateful for the incredible support of our fans, the many well wishers and their patience in what has been a difficult time for us all as a band. Inviting the fans into rehearsals before we start our American tour seemed like the perfect opportunity."

"We are all really excited at the prospect of coming back to the UK in November, we have an incredible production that we've been working on for this tour – and the new songs are sounding great."

Formed in Birmingham in 1978, Duran Duran were one of the most successful bands of the 1980s thanks to hits such as Girls on Film and The Wild Boys. They even joined the ranks of Bond theme singers in 1985 with A View To A Kill – the only Bond theme to go to number one in the US.

■ Duran Duran, The Junction, September 8, doors at 7pm. Tickets are £28.50. More details at www.duranduranmusic.com

Hamsters meet for last gig

COME and help The Hamsters celebrate their 25th and final year together tomorrow at the Haverhill Arts Centre. Retiring after 25 years, the guitar, bass and drums trio have long been established as one of the premier live attractions. Although primarily playing their own brand of rock, blues and Americana, they're also widely regarded as the UK's leading interpreters of the music of Jimi Hendrix and ZZ Top.

Another popular feature of their two-hour performance will be the inclusion of a few acoustic songs.

Guitarist/singer Slim has also just been featured in Guitarist magazine's Blues Guitar Heroes book. The centre will be rocking from 8pm.

On Saturday at 7.30pm it's Poetry Live with National Poetry Competition winner Christopher James.

The local poet launches his new collection, Farewell to the Earth with verse about Seamus Heaney breaking down in a lane to John Lennon on the Great Wall of China; an unpredictable world tour that reaches from Cromer to Kathmandu.

With an open mic from 10pm. There is a free poetry workshop at 4pm with 15 places available, please book in advance.

FRIGHT NIGHT 3D certificate 15 106m

THE 1985 version of Fright Night starring William Ragsdale, Chris Sarandon and Roddy McDowall was a surprise hit and spawned a lacklustre sequel and a computer game three years later. Craig Gillespie and screenwriter Marti Noxon adhere closely to the plot of the original in this latest outing, sprucing up the central hunt for fanged fiends with some slickly orchestrated set-pieces that draw blood simultaneously from the horror and comedy veins.

Former Time Lord David Tennant outshines his Hollywood co-stars in the showiest role as a camp, leather trouser-clad Las Vegas magician, whose image as a bed-hopping dandy is shattered by his underwhelming performances between the sheets.

The new Fright Night benefits from the eye-popping format and Gillespie and his special effects team fling blood and entrails at the camera with abandon to justify the levy on the ticket price.

best friend Charley (Yelchin) that the hunky drifter, Jerry (Farrell), who has moved in next-door is a vampire.

"You read too much Twilight!" scoffs Charley, ignoring Ed's pleas to keep a cross on his person at all times. When Ed vanishes without trace, Charley wonders if Jerry might be responsible.

As the teenager investigates, using a smartphone web browser to access a page on How To Pick A Lock, he imperils his divorced mother, Jane and girlfriend Amy.

Fright Night 3D values spectacle over substance so while Gillespie's film is painfully light on characterisation and plot, it delivers terrific action sequences. A violent stand-off gives new meaning to "bringing the house down" and a late-night getaway in Jane's family car draws inspiration from the freewheeling camerawork in Alfonso Cuarón's Children Of Men. Farrell is sexy and menacing while Tennant swaggers around as the comic relief, providing sterling support to the ever likeable Yelchin, who vows through gritted and polished teeth: "I'm gonna end it or he's gonna end me. That's how it's gonna be."

Tidy minds, tidy gardens

IT might be a little premature to think that summer is over and yes, it is possible that September could be scorching.

But this is the UK, so I'm already thinking about putting my garden furniture away and covering up the barbecue for another year.

September is an ideal time for a great garden tidy-up, while it's still warm enough to work outdoors comfortably before the inevitable freezing weather sets in.

If you've returned from holiday to withered summer bedding and dried-out pots, bite the bullet and empty them on the compost heap, replacing them with a spring display. Plant bulbs, pansies, heathers and other winter and spring stalwarts to brighten up your outlook.

If you're not going to use your containers for winter displays, clean them out, wipe them down and put them away. Don't leave terracotta pots out or they may succumb to frost and crack.

Some gardeners tend to be more relaxed about pest and disease control at the end of the season, but ignore them at your peril or you may be storing up problems that will remain dormant until next year. Cut off or prune out affected parts of diseased plants and burn or dispose of them so that overwintering spores won't survive until next year.

Pest control is also important. Be aware that many biological controls

by Hannah Stephenson

become less reliable when the temperature drops as the predatory insects which provide the control then multiply more slowly. Take off shoots on plants which are infested with greenfly or blackfly and dispose of them.

Don't leave garden debris lying around because slugs will shelter under it and are still capable of doing plenty of damage to your plants. It's also important to keep up with the weeding because otherwise they are likely to shed seeds, creating a hotbed of more weeds next year.

Continue to deadhead roses and cut back finished summer-flowering perennials, removing supports which have propped up the plants which have stopped flowering. These can be cleaned with a mild detergent and put away until next year.

The vegetable garden should still be producing rich pickings of French and runner beans, salad crops, courgettes and sweetcorn, but if you have time, clear away spent crops to create vacant rows, dig over the ground and refill the spare space with autumn and winter crops as soon as possible.

Give the greenhouse a spring-clean, emptying it of staging, plants and rubbish and give it a good clean with hot, soapy water, which will help flush out pests and diseases and prepare the area for any overwintering tender plants you may need to house. Remove greenhouse shading to allow in more light.

If you're putting plants back in there, try to space them out to allow good airflow around them which will help stop the build-up of diseases such as soft rot and mildew.

Garden furniture can also be cleaned at this time of year on fine days, to save you a job next spring. Teak furniture can be washed with a mild mixture of soap and water and it is recommended that you use a soft utility brush to remove surface dust and dirt. Rinse the furniture thoroughly after cleaning and allow it to dry completely before putting it away for the winter.

September is also a good time to prune cane fruits such as loganberries and tayberries, cutting off the fruited canes to about 6in (15cm) from the ground.

Of course, once you've done all this, the sun may come out and you may have to unpack a newly cleaned deck chair or two if the summer turns out to be an Indian one – but you'll be streets ahead when spring arrives.

Hyundai 'most improved maker'

HYUNDAI has been voted the most improved car manufacturer in the Auto Express '10 Years of Driver Power' awards.

From a total of more than 300,000 surveys received over the last 10 years of the annual Driver Power survey, Hyundai has gone from being one of the poorest performing manufacturers for customer satisfaction to one of the five best brands.

Hyundai's customer satisfaction rating has risen by more than eight per cent in the last 10 years from 78.12 per cent in 2002 to 86.34 per cent in 2011. No other car manufacturer has made such a dramatic leap forward over this period. This achievement is also mirrored by a dramatic rise up the best manufacturer chart from 28th place in 2002 to fourth place in 2011.

Performing strongly in the reliability and

The Hyundai i30: The most satisfying car in Britain, according to a 2010 survey.

satisfaction poll since its launch in 2007, the Hyundai i30 is rated fourth in the Top 50 cars of the decade. This vehicle sent shockwaves through the industry last year when it was named the most satisfying car in Britain in the 2010 Driver Power survey and its accolade as the fourth best car of the decade showcases the quality and reliability of the latest Hyundai product line-up.

Acting editor for Auto Express, Graham Hope, commented: "No brand has taken such a massive leap over the past decade as Hyundai. Its range now is unrecognisable from 2002, and our readers regularly tell us that they are both pleased and proud to own a Hyundai, which is reflected in its meteoric rise up our Driver Power ratings. And the company looks set to achieve even greater things in the years ahead."

Hyundai UK's managing director, Tony Whitehorn, said: "We are delighted to win this award. It confirms just how far we have come in a short space of time and that we now have a range of cars people can be proud to have on their driveways. With even more desirable products just around the corner, this really is a very exciting time for the brand."

Street racer: The Jeep Grand Cherokee SRT8.

Jeep's Grand Cherokee SRT8 debuts

THE new high-performance Jeep Grand Cherokee SRT8 makes its European debut at the 2011 International Frankfurt Motor Show.

The SRT8 (it stands for 'Street and Racing Technology') is powered by an all-new 6.4-litre HEMI V-8 engine, producing 470bhp and 630Nm of torque, and making the new flagship model the most powerful, high-performance Jeep vehicle ever produced. The lowered profile, race-inspired interior and exclusive SRT steering wheel with mounted paddle shifters give a performance-orientated feel to the flagship.

The new Jeep Grand Cherokee SRT8 accelerates from 0-62mph in 4.8 seconds and has a top speed of more than 155 mph.

The new Jeep Grand Cherokee's refined interior takes on a performance feel in SRT8 form with race-inspired technology and SRT-exclusive detail including carbon fibre accent inserts, paddle-shift gear controls, Electronic Vehicle Information Centre (EVIC) and new SRT-styled Nappa leather and suede seats.

Assistant to Area Executive Director

East, Cambridge (near Station)

Circa £20,400 per year plus excellent benefits

Full time, permanent

Job ref: ESE1-2

As an experienced professional secretary/PA you will be responsible for managing the complex diary of the Area Executive Director who, due to the scope of her role, is frequently not in the Cambridge Office. Whilst you will be part of a small team of Assistants, you must be self motivated and resilient as you will need to make autonomous decisions in your Manager's absence.

This will involve you in some travel notably to our Offices in London and Brighton.

You must be confident in all aspects of Microsoft Office and be willing to learn our in-house database systems.

A positive, pro-active approach and ability to work as part of a team on the full remit of the role is vital.

Jones in time to sink Wrating

FOOTBALL: West Wrating fell foul of supersub Gareth Jones as they saw a 2-0 lead over Great Shelford turn into a 3-2 defeat in the Kershaw League, Premier Division.

Jones raced from work, only arriving 15 minutes from time when Wrating were leading courtesy of goals in either half by Ricky Baker and Owen Longley. Jones immediately set up Shane Roberts to get Shelford back into the game before nodding home a corner for the equaliser five minutes from time.

Roberts netted the winner with 30 seconds to go by firing into the top corner after a mazy run down the left by Lloyd Groves.

Shelford manager Steve Holden said: "Gareth does traditional wooden flooring and had come straight from working at one of the colleges."

"He turned up still in his work gear covered in dust and grime looking like a chimney sweep."

"But he went straight on without having a warm-up and changed the game for us."

Reds notch magnificent seven

West Wrating 7 Priory Parkside 1 Under-16

FOOTBALL: West Wrating started at a frenetic pace with wave after wave of attacks as Willett and Freeza dominated the midfield and Warnock and Langham provided subtlety down the wings.

The opening goal came when Wheeler intercepted a Priory pass and set up a move which ended with Percy thumping home.

Clayton coolly finished for the second, and some superb interplay from Ollington, Langham and Espin set up Freeza to skip past two and defenders score in the bottom corner.

The fourth was a beauty as man-of-the-match Willett set up Ford for a 25-yard strike into the roof of the net, and the fifth came from an unfortunate own goal by a Priory defender.

Freeza tucked No 6 into the net, and the seventh was a stunning 20-yard strike from Percy, before Priory got a consolation.

■ From back page ask. To take seven points is not too bad. Next week we have to win against Abberton, but you cannot take anything for granted in this game."

Haverhill fear the third-bottom side might be relegated if a team drops down from the East Anglian Premier League.

■ Haverhill II brought the curtain down on their season by thrashing Melton St Audreys in Division Six.

Haverhill look over shoulders

Youngs rues rivals' partnership as Haverhill look over shoulders

Haverhill picked up seven points in their battle against the drop from the Marshall Hatchick Two Counties Championship, Division One as they went down by 95 runs to Mildenhall.

Haverhill remain third bottom, with two matches remaining, first against bottom-placed Abberton and then against Exning.

It started well for Haverhill, who fielded first, as Raj Singh got the early wicket of Joe Reed for a duck. A fine partnership of 60 followed until Reynolds (28) edged Singh to slip, where Sam Powell took a fine catch. When Chris Baugh (0) was taken down the leg side by Luke Youngs off Anthony Phillips the home side had slipped to 61 for 3 off 12 overs.

Skipper Lankester joined the impressive Shepperson and they added 52 in 12 overs before Phillips found Lankester's (11) edge and Youngs took the catch behind.

Shepperson played around a straight one from Scott Webb to be trapped leg before for 90. Holmes (14) went bowled by Webb, and when Powell bowled Turner for three, Mildenhall were 178 for 7 off 36 overs.

Karl Holmes joined the experienced Squire and they batted brilliantly to add 99 in 14 overs to take the game away from Haverhill.

Squire ended unbeaten on 80 and Holmes on 41 as Mildenhall posted 277 for 7. Singh, Phillips and Webb took two wickets each.

Haverhill's reply started well enough until Powell (16) was caught at slip by Squire off Warraich.

With England under-19 paceman Tymal Mills getting up a head of steam, Bill Moran (21) was caught down the leg side and Haverhill were 41 for 2. This became 51 for 5 as Adam Dellar (3), Dave Brown (4) & Robbie Ketteridge (0) all perished.

Scott Webb joined Luke Youngs and they added 57 before Webb (29) was out leg before. Simon Youngs (6) was caught down the leg side and Phillips (0) was bowled as Haverhill slipped to 119 for 8.

A partnership of 35 followed between Youngs and Singh but this ended as Singh (15) was caught in the deep. Youngs went past 50 for the second game running and was finally run out for an impressive 73, leaving Joe Woodley unbeaten on eight after playing his part in the partnership of 28 to get Haverhill up to 182 all out.

Captain Simon Youngs said "Apart from the last 15 overs we bowled well but we let them get away and their score was always going to be a tough turn to page 55

Wardley goal nets plum tie

Haverhill Rovers 3 Brantham Athletic 2
FA Cup, preliminary round

A STUART Wardley goal 20 minutes from time at New Croft earned Rovers a clash with King's Lynn Town in the next round.

In the first-half feast of attacking football, Dan Cornwell and Scott Lodge caused Athletic's back line numerous problems, but failed to provide a goal.

However, a loose pass from Wardley was intercepted by Brantham after 23 minutes and, after Paul Abbott had bravely blocked a goalbound shot, the visitors took a shock lead.

Rovers fought back to level through Stuart Kingham after 29 minutes.

With half time approaching, Cornwell turned in the box to put Rovers 2-1 up at the break.

Brantham equalised after 60 minutes when a shot was deflected by Marcus Hunt into the Rovers goal.

Lodge and Marc Abbot spurned chances before Wardley headed Rovers' winner.

Haverhill manager Peter Betts said: "We were expecting a tough game as they were unbeaten, but we were outstanding."

"To be fair, 3-2 flattered them. For the first time this season, everyone really gelled. The only frustrating thing was that they were still in the game at half time at 2-1 as we could have been 6-0 or 7-0 up."

"The most pleasing thing was that we were mentally strong enough to come back when they made it 2-2 to get the win."

"The support was brilliant, and that's a real plus to everyone at the club. There was a really good atmosphere."

"King's Lynn away in the next round is a hell of a draw. They're going to be the favourites and we'll be the underdogs."

"But it's the FA Cup and you never know what can happen."
